

NOSTALGIC KETTLE FOR TEA ENTHUSIASTS

KitchenAid Presents a New Stovetop Kettle

HAMBURG, FEBRUARY 2015. There is a new rising star for tea enthusiasts: KitchenAid expands its non-electrical product range with the stovetop kettle. With a capacity of 1,9 L, the kettle will satisfy you not only on the induction field but on every other type of stove as well. Once the water is boiling the kettle makes a clear whistling sound. The small lever on the convenient handle made of stainless steel can easily be pushed down and allows to pour the water effortlessly in any kind of pot or cup.

The new stovetop kettle made from solid porcelain also convinces with its nostalgic design and elegant silhouette. This way the new kettle becomes a must-have for every tea lover. A small and removable lid makes the kettle easy to clean and simple to refill.
